

“5 Minutes With.....” Speaker Questionnaire

Why do you love what you do?

I love the challenge of making the complex simple. When looking at future trends, many people can find the whole theme daunting or overwhelming. I love helping clients and audiences get some perspective on exactly what is set to change (and what won't) so that they can work on a plan to get ready. That is a really empowering thing.

What can our 2018 ALPMA Summit delegates expect to hear from you?

We're going to have some fun. While it'll be looking at some hard-hitting data and research, our time together will also have a lot of levity and touch on the personal as well as the professional realm.

What part of the Summit are you most looking forward to?

I always love meeting delegates afterward and hearing what has resonated with them most. The Speaker Lounge will be a great forum for this!

Fun Fact! What's one thing you can share that most of our delegates don't know about you?

I'm a dad of a 2 year old named Max. As someone who spends a lot of time looking to the future, having a kid who will inherit that future brings things into sharp focus and adds a lot of meaning to my work.

What does the 2018 ALPMA Summit theme “Shaping the future firm – it starts with you” mean to you?

I love that the theme isn't just about understanding the future but shaping it. We can be active participants in crafting what the future holds and that is such an important perspective to hold onto.

In three words, how would you colleagues describe you?

Honest. Practical. Irreverent.
